March 2016

Declaration at the occasion of the International Day of Women in Europe

Europe is still a place where women are illegally detained and assassinated for political reasons.

Europe is still a place where women are aggressed and harassed in the public area.

Europe is still a place where refugee women and children are begging for a shelter.

The International Day of Women 2016 is marked by the exhausting search for equality.

No progress is noticeable in these times of social, economic and political uncertainty.
